

Dr. David M Littlewood MA, D.Phil

Dr. Littlewood has a first degree and a doctorate in chemistry from Oxford University. After 9 years as a tax inspector with the UK Inland Revenue, he was a tax manager for a major oil company (Conoco) for almost 10 years.

Since 1994 he has acted as a business development consultant for several companies in the energy sector, operating in electrical power generation, energy from waste and waste disposal, internal combustion engine research, LNG importation & gas storage including technical input on gas processing, pipeline and cavern storage design.

As a director and company secretary for several of the companies he has worked with, his roles and responsibilities have included guidance on corporate structuring, governance, taxation, market analysis, cash flow projections, preparation of business plans, negotiations with investors and potential partners, all corporate filings and administration of company books.